With tax season underway, please watch for the IRS or Department of Treasury Scam. According to the Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection (DATCP), an imposter calls to threaten that you must pay now for tax violations. The IRS will not contact you by phone. In fact, they send you a letter by mail, and they do not make threats. The best defense against a scam is to not respond. Find more information on scams at the DATCP website or contact the Bureau of Consumer Protection.
